MEET WESTERNERS ON TENNIS COURTS

Longwood Tournament Starts Real Test for Supremacy in Boston Today.

By BRYAN MORSE.

The Longwood tennis tournament which starts in Boston today brings the Eastern cracks against the Western exponents for the first time in real competition, and there is a deal of speculation whether the campaign about to start in the East by Western met m:n will result in another cleanup for the Coast stars.

The East has drawn first blood save in the clay court championship recently held at Cleveland. The defeat of G. M. Church by Comic Doyle eliminated that sterling player. Doyle was beaten in the finals by Willis Davis, the University of Penn expert who halls from the Coast. Yesterday at Far Rockaway Davis went down before Church in three sets in the finals of the Rockaway tournament, and wiseaeres are predicting that this is the first of the downfalls due the Coast men.

Baturday's engagement between Karl Behr and R. Lindley Murray and National champions, William M. Johnston and Clarence Griffin, in which the titleholders went down to defeat was sweet revenge for the Eastern men. Johnston and Griffin had but three days work on revenge for the Eastern men. Johnston and Griffin had but three days work on the turf courts, which may have been one reason, why they were not up to form. Then, too, Johnston is said to be suffering from an injured back, although those who saw the battle maintain that the national champion is in time fottle.

In the New York State finals Clarence Griffin went down to defeat before the Jap Kumage so that none of the Coast men have come through in the preliminary tournaments as yet. Today's Longwood start is expected to open up the real battling for the coveted titles which will be fought next month at Forest Hills.

In the meantime two former champions, R. Norris Williams, second, and Maurice McLoughlin are keeping out of the limelight. It was reported on the Coast that McLoughlin would not come East. "The Comet" has yet to deny the report and many look for him at any time now. Williams is in retirement in Denver. Colo. It is said, and expects to come East at any time now. Williams went through a strenous spring along the Eastern seaboard this year and rested up after finishing his examinations at Harvard. Treasury is expected to have easy picking today in meeting Smithsonian.

Treasury is expected to have easy picking today in meeting Smithsonian. The curators however may fool the money counting tennis players. Henry Breck will probably get into action with Remey for Treasury, in which event the first Smithsonian team will have the head Suil Commerce and Interstate are batting in the second half of the Departmental League program.

One or two matches are expected to be played in the Suburban League this week. Standards and Euclid will meet and Racquet and the Home Club play-ers will take the courts in the post-poned matches.

The announcement of the affiliation of Washington cancelsts with the American Cance Association. Baltimore. Philadelphia, and Washington having joined, is going to be a big boost for the same here. Washington men, more particularly Burch, Knight, Wagner, and Rutherford, more than held their own in the big regatta against New Yorkers this summer. In addition there will be added incentive for bettering conditions here.

The fact that the twelfth annual Potomac Club tennis tournament at Cumberland will be called off this year is going to prove a disappointment to several Washington racqueters and more particularly Albert J. Gore. In past years Gore has made an exceptionally fine showing against the Pitsburgh men usually entered in the tourney. Military training is knocking the Cumberland players out, according to the committee in charge.

Paul Treanor is ranked in the hundred best players in the country. The youngster who first got his training here is expected to come through this summer. His erratic work in tournament play, however, is killing his chances for perfection.

Howard Cissell, captain of the Central High School tennis team, and runner up to Harold Selden in the District Junior championship, has affiliated with the Princeton Tennis Ciub, and is expected to strengthen the team.

A large gallery is expected to be on hand on Sunday next when Howard Backett, Jack Burgess. Fred McLeod, Jimmie Spencer, and Dave Burgess, local professional golfers of the Wasnington Country, Chevy Chase, Columbia, Suburban, and Bannockburn Clubs get action.
